FUTURE CEMETERY FOR THE CITY.

Mr Simon, the City officer of health, has just presented an introductory report to the Improvement Committee of the City Commissioners of Sewers, on the subject of the provision to be made for the future interment of the dead of the City of London. The responsibilities attached by the recent Acts to the Commissioners are considered under three heads—"first, that a sufficient extranural burial-ground shall be provided for that class of persons who have heretofore had right of interment within the City, secondly, that the facilities for transit and conveyance to such burial-place be commensurate with the purpose for which it is established, thirdly, that cell no longer accrues to the health of the City from unnecessary delays of interment, or from the keeping of dead bodies in the dwelling-rooms of the poor.

In considering these responsibilities Mr Simon suggests, in the first instance, that the cemetery which it is proposed to form for the City about be sufficiently large on each should that be put to the distortion of the City of the City of the City of the City and the content of the City a

REMEDIES FOR CHOLERA.

Sir.—Having been favoured with the insertion of a letter on its subject of "Malignant Cholera" last year in your excellent page, and as it is now unhappily among us, may I request you will have the goodness to repeat the substance of that communication, wherein I stated I had found in my practice in the former visitations of this sourge, emetics of mustard, or ipeaceualness, and edgeming and castor or olive oil, mixed with hot milk and given cold, But who the disease was more advanced, and the uninary secretion beans suppressed (as it generally was). I found most beneficial effects from the contraction of the contraction of

THE POLICY OF AMERICA IN THE EVERY OF WAR.—Among the un-English delusions conjured up to magnify the possible daugers of the supposition that the ocean would "swarm" with Yanke privateers under Russian letters of marque. It is quite possible that reverse the supposition that the ocean would "swarm" with Yanke privateering vessels might be found under the Russian flag with vateers under Russian letters of marque. It is quite possible that privateering vessels might be found under the Russian flag with a such ruffinas would be treated according to their deserts and how that is we may describe in the words of an American contemporary, the 'New York Courier and Enquirer,' which draws a free cedent from the period of the Mexican war:—

"Our commerce then, whitening, as it does now, every sea, was increased to the coming strangel. And then, as now, dead was very sea, was increased to the coming strangel. And then, as now, dead war with a nation which commerce the state of the commercial power of the comme
